

Allocating Demand

Once the primary and secondary layers have either been created or registered, you can now begin the allocation process to assign demand to the network nodes.